

Abstract

School experience in parent education

Ms Sylvia Chan May-kuen, Principal, Ma On Shan Ling Liang Primary School

Parent education has been considered as a more and more important aspect for school education, especially for early childhood and elementary schooling. On top of their already fully-loaded teaching and learning activities, schools nowadays are offering a variety of parent education programmes, such as seminars, workshops, parent-child activities, etc. Serving as a primary school principal, Ms. Sylvia Chan is going to share her experience in conducting parent education in her school and how it is to be realized as a synergy to the nurturing of the students as a whole.

What is the most popular and powerful parent education activity?

What are the clues for conducting effective parent education in schools?

How to educate educated parents?
