The cohesive and sustainable caring community network can be established.

Movement of service integration is leading to social inclusion and social cohesion in the community by development of Social Capital.

Underprivileged people, especially the underprivileged elderly and people-in-poverty can have a role-change shifted from service recipients to active community participants.

An interactive and resourceful community network can support the underprivileged people to deal with their challenges.

The model of youth and elderly service integration will be further developed and examined in order to explore the effective community-perspective strategy to deal with complicated problems in society in future.

Let's work together
